Are you careful with your watch? No wonder the possessor of a good watch is careful into whose hands he leaves it for repair, when it fails to do its work. Many a good watch is left in bad hands and is spoiled by incompetent or careless repairing. Does your watch need attention? Don't run the risk of having it spoiled. A challenge by the ladies of the Congregational church.

The parish ladies have met,
And talked about their quarter,
How best they might invest it,
And the way they feel they oughter.
And thereupon an argument
Arose and filled the hall,
A challenge to the men we send
For we can beat them all.
Kind sirs, accept this challenge,
At once invest your gold,
For we are going to work with an ardor,
That would crush hearts not so bold.
When December calls for the summing up,
And all have done their best,
The "beaten out" will serve a feast
The "victors" will do the rest.

Ansel G. Dudley.

Ansel G. Dudley died Thursday morning, January 9th, at the age of nearly 88 years and was the oldest man in town at the time of his death.

This job was done more than 60 years ago and no portion of these abutments have been replaced until within the past season.

Twice-Told Testimony.

Norway People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers.

Norway testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Norway who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt this evidence of merit we produce confirmed proof—statements from Norway people who again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills—confirm their former testimony. Here's a Norway case.

Mrs. Persis A. Walker, Cottage street, Norway, Me., says: "It gives me pleasure to verify my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. They have done me a lot of good. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store, when I was feeling miserable from kidney disorders. This remedy helped me in a short time, and I continued its use until I was well." 2-3

The Old Barn.

No hay upon its widespread mows,
No horses in the stalls,
No broad-horned oxen, sheep or cows,
Within its time-worn walls.

The wind howls through its shattered doors
Now swinging to and fro;
And o'er its once frequented floors
No footsteps come and go.

But once, alas! each vacant bay,
And every space around,
Was teeming with sweet-scented hay,
The harvest of the ground.

And well-fed cattle in a row,
At managers ranged along,
Each fastened by an oaken bow,
Stood at the stanchions strong.

But where so long old Dobbin stood,
His master's pride, and care,
And from his hands received his food,
All now is vacant there.

Then these broad fields, from hill to plain,
Waved in the summer air,
With choicest crops of grass or grain,
Now left so bleak and bare.

How sweet the music of the flail,
Resounding far and clear,
As borne upon the passing gale,
It reached the distant ear.

The blackbird hailed the dewy morn,
From out his rushy perch;
The sparrow sang upon the thorn,
The cat-bird on the birch.

The robin from the highest tree
Sent forth his whistle clear,
His soul partaking of the glee
That wakes the vernal year.

And childhood's merry shout was heard
The farm-yard choir among,
Which, mingled with the note of bird,
Enriched the tide of song.

The master on his daily round
With conscious pride would go,
His faithful dog, close by him found,
Attending two and fro.

Old honest "Trip" long since has gone,
And moulders 'neath the wall;
No more he takes the welcome bone,
Or hears his master's call.

The kindly master, too, has died,
The matron in her grace,
And dead, or scattered far and wide,
The remnant of their race.

Aunt Tabitha.

Whatever I do and whatever I say,
Aunt Tabitha tells me "that isn't the way,"
When she was a girl forty summers ago,
Aunt Tabitha tells me they never did so.

Dear Aunt, if I only would take your advice,
But I like my own way and find it so nice;
Besides I forget half the things I am told,
But they will come back to me when I am old.

If a young gent was passing by, it might happen no doubt,
He may look in as I chanced to look out;
She would never endure an impertinent stare,
"It is horrid," she says, and I mustn't sit there.

A walk in the moonlight has pleasure I own,
But it isn't quite safe to be walking alone;
So I take a gent's arm just for safety, you know,
But Aunt Tabitha tells me she never did so.

How wicked we are and how good they were then;
They kept at arm's length those detestable men.
What an era of virtue they lived in, but say,
Were the men all so wicked in Aunt Tabitha's day?

If the men were so wicked, I'll ask my papa,
How he dared to propose to my darling mamma;
Was he like the rest of them? Goodness who knows,
And what should I say if a wretch should propose?

I am thinking, if auntie knew so little of sin,
What a wonder Aunt Tabitha's aunt must have been.

Children's Column.

East Andover, Me., Jan. 1, 1913.

Dear Editor:—
It is a fine day my dear Polly and Pat,
And I certainly think you know what you're at;
And I know without specs your surely can see
The answer to riddle, of course it was Bee.
Now here is another and I must confess
The answer to this one I expect you to guess.

Here it is:
I'm a strange contradiction,
I'm new and I'm old;
I'm often in tatters,
And oft decked in gold.

I'm always in black,
I'm always in white;
I'm grave and I'm gay,
I'm heavy and light.

In form too, I differ—
I'm thick and I'm thin;
I've flesh and no bone,
Yet I'm covered with skin.

I've more points than the compass,
More stops than the flute;
I sing without voice,
Without speaking confute.

I'm English, I'm German,
I'm French, and I'm Dutch.
Some love me too fondly,
Some slight me too much.

I often die soon, though
I sometime live ages,
And no monarch alive
Has so many pages.

This is harder than the other I think, but it is a very good one. I guess I must also have a lucky star, anyway I hope to see our Column a very interesting space in our good paper. Let us one and all try to see some piece in our own column.

We have a coon cat. It is a beauty too, black and white I think he is the prettiest cat I ever saw.

Good bye all,

How Any Woman Can Cure
Indigestion
Most stomach remedies are makeshifts—they give relief but afterwards the stomach is just as weak, just as unable to digest the food as it was before.
Women especially should not depend on relievers only. MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets not only give prompt relief but they put strength and elasticity into the stomach walls and cause the digestive juices to act naturally.
They do more; they force the digestive organs to supply the blood with pure nourishment which is carried to the muscles, nerves, brain, and skin. Result: healthy muscles, strong nerves, clear head, and clean skin. Noyes Drug Store guarantees MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets—50 cents. Adv. 34

Good Street Manners.

It is the ambition of every right thinking woman to know how to act correctly at all times. But, it too often happens, she who is so careful of her social manners and usages, spoils all her efforts by forgetting that her street demeanor is as essential as all the rest.

Of course a well-bred girl, or one trying to be, is not likely to scream and act boisterously or unladylike in any public place; but there is a certain decorous deportment, even in walking, that too many fail to observe.

Did you ever notice the way some feminine pedestrians swing their arms until they appear absolutely grotesque? The "lady" of other days was instructed that the proper way to walk was to hold your arm closely to the sides. Of course she avoided any semblance of awkward stiffness. Her manner was entirely antagonistic to the nervous energy, which the twitchy stride, the swinging arms and the moving jaws indicate. For it is indeed too true that the chewing habit has taken a firm hold on even those who profess to be above the average in the matter of "form."

To see a girl going along with grim determination, munching on a piece of gum that she switches from one side of her mouth to the other is repulsive. It is as bad as to see a man equally energetic with a cud of tobacco. This street habit should be nipped in the bud. Though not as repulsive, candy eating is another exercise that should be kept for less public exhibitions.

The habit of looking back after another person is a habit that is quite prevalent. It is almost as distinctly rude as the manner of staring full into a man's face as he passes. This seems to imply a disposition to become acquainted, though the girl would scornfully repudiate the inference that she was trying to flirt. The less conspicuous, always the better bred.

It seems hardly necessary to say that pointing is bad form; but as so many who are not children are addicted to this method of attracting attention, this little "sheet sermon" winds up with a "lastly" which takes this in as well as the others mentioned at greater length.

HIRAM.

The heirs of Christopher Allen have sold the pine lot west of Frank L. Weston's to Messrs. Wm. Tucker of Steep Falls and Alfred V. Dow of Hiram.

The heirs of Marshall Spring will cut some 75,00 feet of pine on their farm. Some of it is in an old field where oats grew in 1858. It is remembered that Charles C. Cole who became judge of the Supreme Judicial court of the District of Columbia, raised oats there in that year.

The venerable Lewis Trafton died suddenly Dec. 28, while sitting at his table, aged 86 years, 10 months. He has been one of our most respected citizens. George S. Merrill, who underwent an operation at the Maine General Hospital Saturday, Jan. 4, is improving as rapidly as can be expected.

The M. C. M. X. Study Club met Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Ezra W. Bosworth. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. B. C. Scribner, East Hiram.

The trustees of the Hiram Public Library are very busy making arrangements for a fair and entertainment to be held the latter part of this month, the proceeds to go towards a fund to erect a suitable building for the library. Ever since the establishment of the library it has been moved from one house to another, and now no one feels like housing and caring for it much longer.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

No. XXVIII.

In one of my letters last winter I quoted from a letter received from T. S. Fessenden, a former South Bridgton boy, then at Mentone, Ala., who was planing to go to Florida and settle on a little tract that he had bought there. He went alone and had a little house built and was almost ready to move in when he was taken sick and lived but a few days. He was brought to Hurley, S. D., and buried and a pretty bronze monument which he had arranged for before he left Hurley, was erected over his grave. He was a member of the Edwin S. McCook Post, No. 31, of Hurley, and his comrades passed the resolutions which were published in the Hurley Herald.

Mr. Fessenden went to Wisconsin from South Bridgton about the beginning of the Civil War I think. He enlisted in a Wisconsin battery and served for three years then re-enlisted and served to the close. He moved to Dakota territory in 1872 and made his home there until a year or two before his death. He was a faithful soldier and a good citizen. He was nearly 80 years of age and the last survivor of the large, Dr. Fessenden's family.

While on my eastern trip I enjoyed two very pleasant over Sunday outings at the home of my neice, Mrs. Elsworth Gile, (nee Fannie Burbank) a former resident of West Fryeburg. Mr. and Mrs. Gile and their two daughters, Mabel and Beatrice have a very pleasant home at Jackson, N. H., wherein they combine both pleasure and profit. They own a large double building in which they operate a bowling alley, pool hall, shooting gallery, barber shop and ice cream parlor; also sell pastry, soft drinks cigars and confectionery. Their establishment is popular and during the summer season they are all kept busy waiting upon their numerous customers.

Mr. Gile is an enthusiastic sportsman. He owns a fox hound and in the hunting season he usually secures his limit of deer, and many a sly R-nard falls a victim to his dog and gun.

Jackson is one of the most popular summer resorts of the White Mountain regions. It is three miles from Glen the nearest railroad station. It has five large summer hotels, each overflowing with city guests during the busy season. Here, far from the city's strife, toil and care those who can afford the luxury of a summer outing come each year to spend a few days or weeks or even months in the quiet of this little valley and mountain side resting place. High up amongst the neighboring hills, many old fields and pastures have been brought up by wealthy city people, who have built fine mansions and have turned the rough and rocky side hills into a beautiful bower of Eden. Fortunate indeed is the city dweller who can afford to spend his or her summers amongst the New England hills.

And now with one more sketch I will close these stories of times both old and new. In the spring of 1866 I sold the old Lovell Centre farm to Granville Martin. He was a carpenter by trade and lived up near Heald Pond. Mr. Martin did not live many years after moving upon the farm, but they had a large number of bright sensible children, and Mrs. Martin, (nee Ocean Russell) daughter of Maj. George Russell of Lovell Center, made her home there until her death some twenty years ago when the family was broken up. I only remember the names of the three older children, Bell, James and Lucy.

Bell married Edwin Hutchins of whom I wrote. Since then I read in the Advertiser a notice of her sudden death. Lucy married Elwell Andrews of whom I also wrote. James and the other children I think all moved away. The old farm has been without a tenent for many years. It was owned until a few years ago by three of the Martin children. Eckley Stearns is now the owner of the place, he having paid $1,500 for the last one-third interest in the place. He tore the old house down; so now the last relic of the old Andrews-Martin house is gone.

In the good old days when religious sentiment at Lovell Center was much stronger than it is today and when each week the well attended evening prayer meeting was held from house to house, I can almost see the forms, and almost hear the words of prayer and praise and the earnest exortations of many earnest Christians as they gave their testimony. But the thing that looms up clearest in my memory is that of Granville Martin singing his favorite hymn with all the vim and fervor of an enthusiast. I can only remember one or a part of one verse. "He looked on me with pitying eye, and said as he passed by, with God you have no union, union, union with God you have no union." If any of the readers of the Advertiser know the words and will send me a copy I would be very glad.

And now in closing this long series of sketches I can only say that in drawing upon memory's store house, covering a period of more than sixty years, I have done my best to paint the pictures true to life. It has been a pleasant although laborous task and I hope will be of interest to many old friends, who have lived or are living in old Oxford county.

About Oct. 16 I returned to Hurley, S. D., to remain about a month or so, then started for California by way of Mecker, Okla., Houston and San Antonio, Texas at each of which places I stopped for a few days to visit old South Dakota friends, and then go on for a winter's stay with old friends in and around Los Angeles, then about March start on my return via San Francisco and Oregon and Washington and home on the N. P. line to St. Paul and Hurley, my starting point, making a trip covering some 6,000 miles, mostly over a section of country that I have never visited before.

You may be 30 in years, but if you are baldheaded or gray, people will surely take you to be many years older.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause there would be no baldness.

PARISIAN Sage, America's greatest hair restorer, will keep you looking young and attractive.

It is guaranteed by Noyes Drug Store to make hair grow and stop falling hair; to cure dandruff in two weeks; to stop itching of the scalp almost instantly.

PARISIAN Sage is the most invigorating, satisfying, and pleasant hair dressing made; it makes the hair, soft, luxuriant and handsome; it is especially praised by women who love beautiful hair. 50 cents a bottle. Adv. 3 4

Those Dizzy Feelings.

By Dr. True

People often come to me complaining of giddiness and nausea. If they look down, or up, or change position suddenly, they have a whirling, topsy-turvy feeling that is very distressing. They are in a truly wretched condition—unfit for business or pleasure—half sick and feeling just as bad as if wholly so.

Now, I find nine times in ten that such people have been careless about eating, and haven't kept their bowels in good order. People don't always know it, but really most sickness comes from neglect of stomach and bowels. This fact I have learned in a long and laborious practice. I urge you, then, if you feel dizzy, nervous, depressed, see spots before your eyes or have bad breath, to begin taking my Elixir. It may be had of almost any dealer—at a very moderate cost. This is a pleasant remedy to take and is very effective. It will certainly remove the poisons from your system, restore your appetite, cause your food to digest properly and your bowels to act as nature meant they should. Also expel stomach worms and pin worms if any be present. Go, then, to the nearest dealer and ask for Dr. True's Elixir. I am sure that you will not be disappointed in the good it will do you.

Do Towns Properly Care for Garves and Cemetery Lots, After Accepting Money Left for That Purpose?

Editor of Norway Advertiser:—

Your plea for abandonment of the custom of towns accepting cemetery bequests seems well taken.

The practise is for the will to be probated and the matter to be brought before the next town meeting with an article in the warrant that reads something like this: "To see if the town will vote to accept $——bequeathed by——————and become responsible for the care of his lot in ——cemetery."

The town meeting thoughtlessly accepts the money. The selectmen say the town will allow 3 per cent. interest, and that interest becomes a perpetual charge on the town to be paid year after year by the present and all future generations, and the money to be expended for that purpose.

Do the voters wish to make such a perpetual charge against their towns.

Worse than the poor business policy however, is the practise of letting the matter be forgotten, and the grave or cemetery lot be neglected. This is, I think the ultimate result of many such bequests. There are very few towns that have not received several such bequests, for such purpose, yet it is extremely rare to find a town report which records that any money has been spent in accordance with the town's promise to care for the last resting places of the testator and his loved ones.

The cemetery associations are not usually fitted to receive such bequests and administer them. There seems to be a defect in the Maine Statutes which might well engage the thought of Senator Stearns or Representative Wheeler, or other attorneys in Norway, Paris or elsewhere. Probably the safe solution is to provide that such a bequest establishes a trust to be administered by the court, and arrange for a board of trustees to handle the accumulation for a whole county. Who ever does handle such trusts should be subject to the same restrictions as savings banks, and the accounts should be public records.

This is offered not as a solution of the problem, but as calling attention to the situation, in the wish that some one will devise a better way than that now in vogue, as I understand it.

Relatives and ancestors of mine lie in three different Oxford County towns and I hope some day to arrange with some proper authority for perpetual care of their graves. My wife's grandparents rest in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery and she feels an interest similar to mine.

Truly yours,
D. CROMMETT CLARK,
Somerville, Mass., Dec. 9, 1912.

A GIRL'S WILD MIDNIGHT RIDE.

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Tex., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Noyes Drug Store. 1-5

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Art Exhibit.

The Turner Art exhibit of Boston was held Saturday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. at the Norway Opera House under the auspices of the 9th Grade scholars.

The young people of the 9th Grade entered into the spirit of the occasion and worked with a vim to make a success of the exhibit. Tickets were distributed throughout the schools to be sold by the children, and a good canvass of the two towns was made and a large number of tickets sold.

The exhibit came here on a percentage basis as a guarantee could not be granted and the object of the exhibit was to give the school children and the people of the village an opportunity to see copies of some of the world's best pictures by the famous artists, and which would be instructive as well as interesting.

The proceeds of the exhibit are to be used to purchase pictures for the school rooms where there is a lack of pictures.

The box office was in charge of Paul Hosmer, Archie Swift, Raymond Evirs and Hugh Pendexter, and each took turns during the day selling tickets. Scott Pottle, Willie Lebroke, Peter Klain and Leslie Gibson took tickets inside the door, and Bessie Pottle, Esther Pike, Evelyn Chandler, Mildred Noyes, Ruth Smith, Frances Bartlett, Evelyn Stevens and Florence Russell sold the Art Exhibit catalogues and pictures.

During the afternoon and evening music on the piano was furnished by Frances Bartlett, Archie Swift, Mildred Noyes, Ruth Smith, Esther Pike, Azola Pike and Hazel Wilson.

The pictures were uniquely arranged under the railing of the balcony in front of the stage, and with a double row of seats down the center of the hall the Opera House was turned into an Art Museum.

The pictures were mostly in Turner brown or gray prints and were copies of many world famous portraits and paintings and included such pictures as: The Horse Fair, by Rose Bonheur; Cat and Kittens at Play, Katherine Eddy; End of Day, Adam; Choosing the Caskets, Barth; Joan of Arc, Bastier Lepage; Battle of Lexington, Albion H. Bicknell; Pilgrim Exiles, Return of the Mayflower, Pilgrims Going to Church, George H. Boughton; Sherman's March to the Sea, F. O. C. Darley; Child Handel, Dicksee; Christ and the Doctors, Hoffman; Divine Shepherd, Children of the Shell, Murillo; Sistine Madonna, Raphael; Chariot Race, Wagner; Sir Galahad, Watts; Spirit of '76, Willard; Abraham Lincoln, St. Gaudens; besides many more excellent studies of equal value.

The exhibit also included pictures of statesmen, poets, sculptors, views in Egypt, Greece, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, France, Germany, England and the United States.

C. E. Brown's meat tenderer is a good thing. This is said by everyone who has used it. Mr. Brown got the idea while seeing W. E. Main's punching holes with his jackknive to make a tough steak eatable while at a camp at Lake Sebago. It did improve the steak. Mr. Brown got up an appliance to tender steak using Mr. Main's idea. As Thomas W. Lawson might have said and didn't: Wouldn't it make a feller's thought dome radiate heat like a paving stone in Portoland to watch the Oxford Bull Moose when they get down among the 24-karat wire yankers? After hoof-mauling the hills and foghorning the landscape with New Ideals and Fresh Thoughts on Progress in political bogrot for nine word-logged months they slip quietly into righteous-smily slumber beside Mr. Burleigh and other low-browed, politics-is-a-business, lack-ideal associates of the late Joseph H. Manley. Is it possible to suspect that even a low powered microscope might not be required to demonstrate that the colonel's lady and Mrs. O'Grady are really quite strikingly similar under the epidermis.

That new column of yours is such a magnate that it is hard to read the news items before taking up the knocks and boosts. That means only one thing—interest.

You might devote a few lines to pointing out the difference between destructive and constructive criticism, though both are good. Prehaps an illustration might help. For instance: If you say that Main street from Pleasant street to Printing House Square is close to indictable nine months out of the year, your criticism is more destructive than exaggerated. But if you add that it might all be remedied by a properly graded roadway and a little easily secured drainage, the whole thing becomes constructive.

Again: If you remark that Norway residents are riding straight into an eventual typhoid epidemic because they are too thick or too stingy to put in a sewer system, that's destructive though truthful. Show them a way to secure the proper drainage of the whole village and you are back in the constructive column.

Anyhow, keep up the destructive and constructive work regardless of who objects and you will get fruit or die in the attempt, in which case no doubt, the people will take a brace, put in the needed reforms and call you blessed on a big stone monument which you would not care a shoe peg whether it was ever raised or not.

By the way, when is Hobb's pond to become Norway's water supply, thus freeing bather's in the big lake from becoming transgressors of the law and drinkers from their own bath?

Nobody has got a better opinion of himeelf than the man who has accumulated $25,000 in a small town.

"Sanborn, you are right in that Kicker Column when you say the school children should be enrolled by their legal names. It's ridiculous the way some teachers give the names of their schol ars. The school officials should never accept such returns and perhaps they don't in your town but they do in my town, and I've put up a kick, but some how the teacher persists in doing it." This was said to us the other day in an adjoining town.

It's carelessness on the part of teacher and school officers.

We want to print the roll of honor in the paper but we want to give their right names and not the nursery pet name.

Freckles.

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 8, A. G. Delamater presented the well-known and popular play, "Freckles," before a large and most appreciative audience.

Act. I showed the men's camp and the engagement of Freckles (Milton Nobles, Jr.,) a one armed boy, to guard the Limberlost by Mr. McLean, (Wm. F. Canfield) a member of the Grand Rapids Timber Co., and how Mr. McLean became so impressed with the good character and straightforwardness of the boy that he permitted him to use his father's name, as the boy had no name of his own save "Freckles," and thus he was placed on the payroll of the Grand Rapids Timber Co. This act also showed the introduction of the Swamp Angel, (Ruth Gray) the Birdwoman, (Mabe Agnew) who is collecting camera studies of birds, Mr. Duncan, (Frank Battsn) head teamster of the gang and his wife, Mrs. Duncan, (May Tyrrel).) Freckles comes upon Black Jack, (Robt. A. Wessells) a timber thief and Wessner, (L. E Walter) camp cook and thief, as they are planning to rid the Limberlost of some of its most valuable trees without the knowledge of the Grand Rapids Timber Company.

Act. II is in the heart of the Limberlost and represents Black Jack and Wessner trying to coerce Freckles by the offer of money to betray Mr. McLean and thus permit them to perpetrate their crime. Failing to bribe him they take his revolver from him and seriously threaten him, when he is rescued through the wiles and strategy of his little sweetheart, "The Swamp Angel." Later he saves the Swamp Angel's life from a falling tree but is severely himself.

Act 3 is a representation of the Angel's home with the introduction of her father, one of the wealthiest men in town, and shows the power of the Angel's love over Freckles. He is too proud to tell his sweetheart of his love on account of having only one arm and being nameless, but the Angel understanding the situation tells him that she loves him and asks him to marry her after they have both gone to school and become educated and after Freckles has cultivated his marvelous voice. Freckles cannot consent to do this, and finally she persuades him to consent by telling him that she can prove that he had a father and mother and that they fondly loved him. It is finally discovered that Freckles is a nobleman from Ireland, a nephew of Lord O'Moore (John Miles), who has come to America in quest of a lost relative. Freckles is the true heir to the title, but this he gives up to his uncle, as he had rather remain in the Limberlost with the friends he has learned to love, but he accepts his mother's property. Much to his joy he learns that he was dearly beloved by his parents and that he lost his hand by a flying piece of iron from a burning building. In this act McLean and the Birdwoman pledge their troth, and the act finally closes with a song Freckles is singing to his sweetheart.

Freckles was presented by a strong cast of characters, and was one of the finest plays seen in Norway for a long time.

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from some form of feminine disorder is told that an operation is necessary, it of course frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital operating table and the surgeon's knife strikes terror to her heart, and no wonder. It is quite true that some of these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but thousands of women have avoided the necessity of an operation by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This fact is attested by the grateful letters they write to us after their health has been restored.

These Two Women Prove Our Claim.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. Hayward Sowers, Cary, Me.

Charlotte, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. If I even lifted a chair it would cause a hemorrhage. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health and am the mother of a nice baby girl. You can use this letter to help other suffering women."—Mrs. Rosa Sims, 16 Wyona St., Charlotte, N. C.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman submit to a surgical operation without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Noon Hour in Schools.

It now seems, in the course of events as they are shaping up in this wicked world, that the noon hour in the country schools of Maine has become a fruitful source of moral or physical injury to the pupils. At a recent meeting of the teachers of Washington county, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, the noon-hour in our rural schools has been, and is, a moral menace to such schools, be it resolved:

That superintendents be urged to request or require, in engaging teachers, that such teachers are to remain at the building during the noon hour, and that remuneration be given for this extra work.

That teachers be urged to exert such influence over both parents and children that wholesome lunches be provided; that the teacher prepare hot cocoa or something similar for the children, and teach them simple lessons in courtesy, neatness and hygiene during their participation in lunch.

That the teachers closely supervise the playground, and that the children be urged to bring to school dolls, toys and games for use during the noon hour, when the weather forbids outdoor play.

Admitting that as times change manners and customs also change, we venture to assert that the average old-timer upon whose head the snows of life's winter are descending will cudgel his memory a long time and then fail to recall that the noon hour in the little red schoolhouse, in his day and generation, was regarded as a fountain-head of vice and crime. It is possible that the parents so regarded it, but if so they very judiciously refrained from expressing their opinion to that effect, and the pupils, lacking the suggestion and thrown back upon their own initiative, generally came through the ordeal unscathed. Of course it may not be so, but it almost looks as though the reformers in this instance were basing their case upon a reversal of the rule that to the pure all things are pure.

H., Skikjosing is an exciting experience, and lest some may not know what this sport is we will say, a horse with collar and hames has a long cord attached. You hold on the cord, stand erect on your skis, and off you go. Besides these winter parties he also conducts tours to all parts of the world.

Maine Legislature.

Some Things Picked Up.

There is a resolve being considered proposing an amendment to the constitution changing September election to November.

The States good road bill:—Would establish State highway board of three members at nominal salary of $500 a year.

Would employ State highway engineer and such assistant engineers as needed.

Would establish two classes of roads:—First, an interlocking system, forming a trunk line through the State and designated by State highway board, State to bear at least half cost of construction, and once roads are built, State forever to maintain them, establishing a patrol system for this purpose.

Second a system of State-aid roads, to be designated by municipal officers, to serve outlying communities and connect adjoining towns and villages and facilitate travel in reaching markets, railroad connections and State roads, the State to aid, giving smaller towns a larger proportionate amount for each doller appropriated by the town. Counties may help by making appropriations or issuing bonds.

All vehicles must carry one light, at least, after sunset, until one hour before sunrise.

Would prohibit placing of turf in traveled part of highways.

All permanent State road work must begin on or before June 1, or town forfeits State aid.

Towns may have services of engineer at expense of State,

Highway board and Governor and Council shall form an equalizing board until bond issue is equitably expended.

Automobile license fees shall be used to pay interest on bond issue and redeem bonds.

Not over $500,000 of bonds can be issued in any one year.

Bushes obstructing the view at sharp turns or at approaches to railroad crossings shall be removed.

Would abolish office of highway commissioner.

Wheeler of Paris has offered a bill to create a water storage and drainage system in the state; also another that provides for the abolition of grade crossings of highways and railroads. This is probably the outgrowth of the serious accident between South Paris and Norway, last fall.

A bill is under consideration for the prohibition of secret societies in high schools. The bill makes it unlawful for a pupil in an elementary or secondary school to be a member of or take part in such an organization.

There is a bill for giving the State banking department supervision over securities of foreign corporations. This is for the better protection to Maine investors.

There is the State tax rate to be fixed for the next two years.

Bowler an act amending statute relating to compulsory school attendance; also that the superintendents shall render their reports annually on or before Aug. 1st: petition to set off town lots in Mason and annex them to Bethel.

An act to extend the charter of the South Paris Light, Heat & Power Co. for a term of two years.

A bill for pensions for aged teachers will be introduced.

BYRON.

Guy Herrick of Auburn was in town one day last week.

M. S. Whitney has been visiting at E. G. Knapp's for a short time.

John Shaw, who has been sick, is much better. A physician has been in attendance.

A public Grange installation of officers was held Friday evening with E. L. Torrey, State Deputy of Dixfield as installing officer.

Mrs. Louisa Knapp died at her home here Friday morning, after a two years illness of cancer of the liver. She was born in Buckfield and had lived here about all her life. She was 78 years and 6 mos. of age. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. L. E. Sanborn of Rumford, Mrs. C. Conant of Wells, and one son, E. E. Knapp of this place. The funeral was held Sunday at the Center schoolhouse. There was a large attendance. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Rev. Stephen Taylor officiated, as this was a request of Mrs. Knapp on her dying bed. The interment was at Sunnyside cemetery.

SURELY BANISHES CATARRH

Where there's catarrh there's thousands of catarrh germs. You can't get rid of catarrh unless you kill these germs.

You can't kill them with stomach medicine or sprays because they can't get where germs are.

You can kill these germs with Booth's HYOMEI, a penetrating, antiseptic, balsamic air that you breathe a few times a day directly over the raw, sore, germ infested membrane. It does not contain morphine or any habit forming drug.

For catarrh, croup, coughs and colds, HYOMEI is sold on the money back plan by Noyes Drug Store. Complete outfit $1.00. Extra bottles of Booth's HYOMEI if afterwards needed, only 50 cents. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing. Adv. 3-4

Suffered Twenty-One Years—Finally Found Relief.

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The physicians called it "Mother's Pain" and injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,

The Rumford Institute.

Hugh J. Chisholm's Last Work Brings Employer and Employees Together—First Year of Socialogical Experiment Shows Record of Success.

Fate decreed that the last public appearance of Hugh J. Chisholm should be at the dedication of the building which was to mark a new era in the uplifting of the workingman, a structure upon which its founder was to develop an idea that had been the ambition of his life for many years, that of bettering the condition of the ordinary mill hand and giving him an opportunity to enjoy many of the privileges which are to be found only in the larger cities.

And so it came about that Mr. Chisholm's address at the dedication of the Rumford Mechanics Institute, at Rumford Falls, on Nov. 9, 1911, was not only an address in which he told of his plan in erecting the handsome structure but, also, was the official announcement of his intention of turning over to his son, Hugh J. Chisholm, Jr., his vast business interests and of his retirement from the industrial world of the country, in which he had been a leader for many years.

Mr. Chisholm's idea in founding the Institute was to establish an institution whose membership should embrace not only the men who worked for the lowest salaries but also the skilled mechanics and the high officials of the various industries represented within the town. His idea was to cut out the so-called class feeling that is so likely to exist between labor and capital, the employer and the employee and to bring the two together on common ground within the the four walls of the Institute. Thus he believed that the ever-present feeling of labor that it is the slave of capital would gradually give way through the intermingling of the employer, the various officials and the laborers meeting daily at the association, and a better feeling, a clearer understanding would exist between the two great factions.

A single year, only, has passed since the experiment was launched; its founder lived but a few months after the culmination of the idea of which he had hoped so much. But notwithstanding the death of the leader mind, the experiment still goes on its way with every indication of success. Able men are in control of its destinies and they are doing their work well. According to a statement made by Superintendent Henry Q Hawes, the Institute is having a wonderful success.

Activities of 850 Members.

"At the last reckoning," said Mr Aawes, "the Institute's membership numbered about 850, of which a little more than half were men and the remainder women and children between the ages of 14 and 18. The purposes and activities of the Institute are very similar to those of a Y. M. C. A., except that it is divorced from any religious.

"This summer is supported a baseball team, and in the winter we have a league of four teams in basket ball. An institute orchestra of 25 pieces plays every Sunday afternoon and gives occasional concerts and dances. An entertainment course furnishes the members with excellent entertainment at intervals of about three weeks throughout the winter. Every Monday night a lecture is given, chiefly by local men, on topics of educational interest.

"Besides gymnasium classes for men, women, schoolgirls and schoolboys, as well as for the employed boys, there are also classes in dressmaking and sewing for the women and girls. All classes and lectures are free of charge. Pool and bowling have proved very popular, the prices being one-half of the usual rates. Tournaments in these and also in checkers are being organized this winter."

Thus the Mechanics Institute is a very busy place and it is no difficult task to figure out just what a vast influence it must have for good in a community like Rumford or even in a place of much greater size.

The Building Itself.

The building is one of the finest in the State. Costing about $70,000, it is located in the heart of the business section of Rumford Falls, or what recently has been changed to plain Rumford. It is a handsome structure, built of brick and is splendidly equipped and furnished throughout.

Beginning with the basement there are five bowling alleys, as fine as can be built. On the ground or street floor are five big stores and from them is derived a large amount of the money used in maintaining the institution. These, together with a large barber shop also on this floor, are occupied by excellent tenants.

On the floor is a large lounging room, furnished with comfortable couches and chairs. This room also can be used for an assembly room for lectures and for receptions. One of the features of this apartment is a finely done marble bust of Mr. Chisholm.

The decorations of this room are particularly attractive, the border being noteworthy from the fact that interwoven into it are the names of the world's famous inventors. Adjoining this room is a ladies' parlor. On this floor, also, are fine cloak and coat rooms. At the opposite end of the lounging room are billiard and pool rooms. This floor also contains the secretary's office and the apartments for the board of governors.

On the third floor is a good sized lecture room and the gymnasium, which is one of the best in the State, with a running track which can be used for a gallery when desired. On this floor, also, are the shower baths, as well as several rooms which are let singly or en suite, as desired, for a nominal rent.

Any male person not less than 18 years of age, residing in the towns of Rumford or Mexico, the latter being located on the opposite side of the Androscoggin river from Rumford, is eligible to resident membership, and any male person not less than 18 years of age, residing in any other place than the towns of Rumford or Mexico, is eligible to non-resident membership in the association.

Provision for Women.

In addition to the regular membership of men, there is an auxiliary organization known as the Rumford Mechanics Institute Auxiliary association, which is composed of women of the towns of Rumford and Mexico, who are not less than 18 years of age.

According to the by laws they are organized for the purpose of social and literary intercourse among the members, the instruction of its members in domestic science and other similar pursuits, and for their physical, mental and moral development.

Expense and Conditions.

An admission fee of $1 is charged, and the annual dues are $5 payable at intervals of six months. One of the rules of the association is that no member or officer shall receive any salary or emolument for his services. No intoxicating liquors are allowed and no game of chance of any kind is tolerated on the premises. No tips can be given any employee of the institution.

The Institute is open every week day from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. and every Sunday from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. No games are allowed on Sunday and the gymnasium is kept closed on that day. Smoking is prohibited except in the rooms which are offered for rent. Associate members and children are not allowed in the building after 6 p. m.

Not Solely Mr. Chisholm's Gift.

There is one feature of the Institute that is not wholly understood. This is the fact that Mr. Chisholm did not give the building and the equipment as many have believed. His idea was that more interest would be taken in the Institution if all had a hand in the building—if everyone, both rich and poor, the mill hand as well as the great corporation employing him, could each contribute according to their ability to do so. It would make them all feel that they owned a share in the great structure and therefore they would show a greater interest in having the instituiton a success.

Mr. Chisholm, however, was one of the largest contributors to the fund, but he believed that the life of a project depended upon its being self-supporting and that is the plan upon which it is run to day.

Thus it has come about that in the "Magic Town of Maine," where not so many years ago there was nothing but a wilderness, a new institution has been established, something vastly different from the ordinary Young Men's Christian Association, something that may prove a first step in the solution of that difficult problem, the establishment of a friendlier feeling between capital and labor, the employer and the employee. —[Boston Transcript.

The Ghost Was a Whistler.

I recall one night a long time ago when I was in camp on the shore of Lovewell's Pond after dark. I happened to be there all alone as the other members of the party had gone out for a trip somewhere. It grew darker and darker and nothing positive could be seen. Presently there was a dark shape to be seen moving along down the edge of the pond. It moved in a queer way and made no sound whatever. Naturally I began to grow a trifle nervous as I had been filled up with stories about bears in the woods and other things of like cheerful nature, such as always recur to one's mind at dead of night.

After what seemed to be an eternity of doubt there came the sound of one of the members of the camping party cheerfully whistling the White Cockade. I knew it in a second and recognized his voice even in his whistle and it sounded mighty good.

A Sick Man

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

Writes Dr. Hartman About Kidney Disease.

A gentleman writes me: "I was greatly interested in your article describing the Kauffman case of serious disease of the kidneys. The description of his case exactly outlines my condition. I am sure if Peruna cured him as you say, it would cure me also. I am losing flesh rapidly and the doctors say I have every symptom of Bright's disease of the kidneys. If you think I would be benefited by Peruna I will certainly try some as the doctors have practically given me up, the same as they did him."

In reply I wish to say, first, that I never make any promises as to what Peruna will cure. No physician can make positive statements of that sort. I can say this much, however, if I were in your place I should certainly give Peruna a trial. I know of no other remedy that would be so likely to be of use to you in your present condition as Peruna. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime. Continue this for two or three weeks and then if there is anything you wish to ask me further write me and I will give your letter prompt attention.

If I find that the Peruna is not helping you I will be perfectly frank and tell you so, for I would not have you take Peruna unless it was really helping you. But it has rescued so many cases of kidney disease that I am quite confident you will find it exactly suited to your case.

Kidney disease begins with catarrh of the kidneys. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Unless the destruction of the kidneys is already too great Peruna relieves the catarrh and the cause of the kidney disease is removed.

I shall anxiously await a report of your case. Remember, all letters are sacredly confidential. I never use any one's name or address without his written consent. My correspondence is absolutely private. PERUNA IS FOR SALE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

John, the Hermit

Another inborn native sportsman of the old school was John Blackstone. Every one knew John, for his name was a standing joke among the neighbors and none thought very serious thoughts when reminded of John and his peculiar way of living.

His habitation was a cabin 8x10 whose interior, to use the local term might be said to be "thick," for John was a very easy housekeeper. He never troubled to wash his few dishes, sweep the floor or make up his bed shared equally with his dog and cat. The cat was Sukey and the dog Spero, names which descended to each successive dog and cat owned by John, regardless of sex or color.

Once when John went visiting at his brother's, in an adjoining town, he carried the dog's food with him for the reason that "Spero would not eat Jane's cooking" (Jane was his brother's wife.)

John owned a garden patch and raised small crops but spent a good share of his time in summer, hunting and fishing, always going bare-footed from spring to fall. Some seasons he would shoot sixty or a hundred partridges. One spring in "sucker time" he caught quantities of suckers and salted them down with his pork in the barrel. When asked how he liked the combination, John replied, "The suckers were first-rate, but the pork wa'n't worth a cent".

John aspired to play the violin and it was said that he could play only the first half of old Zip Coon, but after performing his usual repertoire one time he put the violin down in disgust, saying, "There, I wish I had never learnt."

Although living in poverty, John died in a comfortable home in the city, where, when he could no longer roam with Spero and share with Sukey, in the happy-go-lucky way, a kind relative took him and cared for him the remainder of his days.

Joh's cabin still stands, or leans rather, and is the home of red squirrels which sit perched in the broken window, with rounded shoulders much in the same position as John used to sit and enjoy the rolling seasons.

Certainly a fitting place to entertain the first lady of the land, and should the Portland Festival Chorus be at Bethel at the same time, as it is understood it will be, the affair will be among the most notable of the vacation season in this State.
